

Assistance Conseil Systèmes

Your partner in industrial computing, embedded and real-time systems

Ac6 (pronounced: "ack-sys") help you in in your design and development activities for industrial, embedded or real-time systems. We propose you a full range of services from training to technical support and including consulting services on system architecture, technology integration or driver writing.

This offers are structured in several entities:

- ac6-training provides a full range of training courses covering all the fields of industrial computing, embedded and real-time systems design and programming.